Germans Hurl Troops Against Americans at Three Places But Attacks Fail Completely

Positively Gained by Pershing's Men in Cantigny Salient Are Consolidated—Enemy Raiders Who Make Three Salts in Lorraine Sector Are Driven Off—Many Killed or Taken Prisoner

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 29.—(By the Associated Press)—The enemy launched another heavy gas attack against our troops in the Lorraine sector early Wednesday morning and attempted to reach our line at three places. They were repulsed with comparatively heavy losses.

The dispatch follows: "The Cantigny salient we have consolidated our positions in spite of heavy artillery and machine gun fire. Renewed counter-attacks broke down under our fire. "In Lorraine we repulsed three attacks during the night, taking several prisoners and killing a number of the enemy. There and in the Vosges the artillery of both sides has been continually active. "We are satisfied that our 26th, 27th and 28th divisions have held their ground under the heaviest machine fire of the enemy, as reported."

Four War-Worn British Divisions Give Fine Proof of Stamina of the Army Keep Off at Bay Till French Retire

NEW YORK, May 29.—Gallantry of four war-worn British divisions which held their ground in the face of the enemy's attack on the Aisne, is being described by the British official communiqué as "the finest proof of stamina of the British army." In a dispatch dated May 29, the British official communiqué stated that the four divisions, which had been in the line since the beginning of the war, had given a fine proof of their stamina and courage. They had held their ground under the heaviest machine fire of the enemy, and had repulsed several attacks. The communiqué also stated that the four divisions had suffered heavy losses, but that they had managed to keep the enemy off at bay until the French had retired.

NEW PRESIDENT
CANADIAN CLUB

Election of Officers Takes Place at Annual Meeting in the

An outspoken address from Prof. J. H. Sheldon on the returned soldier and how the public and organizations can contribute to his welfare.

The membership of the Canadian Club had increased during the past year, also, and there was a substantial financial balance in hand.

There were 40 officers for the year and remarks from the incoming president.

The house contributed a considerable amount of interest to the annual meeting of the Canadian Club, held at the Macdonald hotel on Wednesday afternoon.

S. H. Smith was elected as president for the ensuing year and was warmly acclaimed by the retiring president, Chas. H. Milford Martin.

Those present were as follows:

The financial statement, which was read by the president, Dr. H. H. Wells, showed that the club had received $100 from the donors. The statement also showed that the club had received $100 from the donors. The statement also showed that the club had received $100 from the donors.

The report of the year's work was reviewed and the different gentlemen who have spoken were mentioned. They included the Duke of Devonshire, Dr. James W. Robertson, Dr. George R. Parkin, Capt. Robt. Pearson and Miss Macadams.

tion of the fifteenth anniversary of the sinking of the ship, the raising of funds for St. Dunstons, the blind soldiers, and to the large number of men who have enlisted for overseas service.

Prof. Sheldon's Address

As before stated, the address of Professor Sheldon, who spoke of the returned soldiers, was a very interesting and spoken lines than usual, because Prof. Sheldon spoke in a very different manner in which some members of the club might have expected him to speak and personally trust the returned men.

The speaker eulogized the work that the ladies were doing for the returned soldiers, and he also mentioned the work achieved by the government department under Mr. Stutchbury.

He also mentioned the fact that there were some men in the ranks of the war—these were the persons who regard the war as a sort of "game" and that they were not to be laid down again, or to be continued upon the attitude of these people and that the remarks of the speaker were the matter through the eyes of the returned men, and to endeavor to realize his feelings on returning to the city and to his family and friends around him. The returned man compared the attitude of the citizens with the attitude of the people in France and said: "I have seen the expenditure on clothes and entertainment with what he has seen overseas, and he resented what he heard around him. He said: 'I have seen the world and must have this or that.' Also they looked with askance at the people who asked of what they contributed to war. I have known men who were killed at no risk to life or limb.

Coming to the returned soldiers as individuals, the speaker said that they were not a solid block. Some were nervous, but these men had been many cases they had undergone operations, not one but many. The more that he saw of the returned men, said the speaker, the more he admired them, their leaders and their organiza-

them, they were going to be a force for peace. These men were not numbers or machines, but human beings, and they had to be treated as such, and not regarded with the eye of curiosity or pity, or as some prospective menace. If they were looked upon as a menace it was what they would become, but if regarded in the spirit or hope they would become one of the greatest forces for good in the country. He asked the club to take up leadership in the matter—there were elements in the city and about them generally that were not in the war—there might be lectures on the war, the returned men and their organizations should be helped and encouraged and the initial steps should be taken by the citizens. And the men should not have to come to them. In conter of dealing with the aliens in their midst, and the attitude of the returned men towards them. In closing Mr. Stark stated that the association is providing for the education and re-employment of the returned man.
